ANNUAL REPORT 2005 YEAR IN REVIEW

Gold Star Families Memorial and Park • • “Central Gathering Plaza”

Gold Star Families Memorial and Park is situated on nearly 5 acres along Chicago's lakefront and is nestled between Soldier Field and Burham Harbor. The Chicago Police Memorial Foundation continues to raise funds to erect the country's finest law enforcement memorial to honor Chicago's fallen Police Officers. The Gold Star Families Memorial & Park was opened on September 12, 2006 and was dedicated during a candlelight vigil on September 18, 2006.

ON THE COVER

This area, known as the “Central Gathering Place,” serves as a central staging area for events such as the Foundation’s candlelight vigil held each year in May. It is two tiered with the upper tier acting as the stage. The Great Lawn holds an audience for large events and the lower tier seats nearly 150 for smaller events. The backdrop includes a spectacular water wall which flows into a reflecting pond, as well as a species of trees that bloom in early May so as to add a beautiful natural background for the candlelight vigil. Brick pavers fill the two tiers and are being sold as one of many fundraising efforts.

Chicago Police Department

2005 Annual Report

Mission Statement

The Chicago Police Department, as part of, and empowered by, the community, is committed to protect the lives, property and rights of all people, to maintain order and to enforce the law impartially. We will provide quality police service in partnership with other members of the community. To fulfill our mission, we will strive to attain the highest degree of ethical behavior and professional conduct at all times.

Pledge Against Racial Profiling

As members of the Chicago Police Department we reject racial profiling as a law enforcement tactic. We do not encourage, tolerate, or condone the use of racial profiling. We are committed to the use of sound police strategies based upon reasonable suspicion, probable cause, the judicious use of police discretion, and the continued development of community relationships.

Making Chicago the Safest Big City in America

Message from the Superintendent

Our goal is to make Chicago the safest big city in America, and the key strategy toward that goal is to reduce violent crime in our city. We had much to be proud of in 2005. There were 126 days in which no one was murdered in Chicago, a 23.5 percent increase over the 102 murder-free days in 2004. For the first time since 1964-65, 2005 completed two consecutive years with fewer than 500 murders each.

During the same time period that Chicago experienced an historic drop in homicides, our anti-violence strategies reduced overall index (serious) crime by 6.0 percent and violent crime by 2.2 percent. Total index crimes were down in 23 of our 25 police districts, and violent crime, in 14 districts. Police presence aimed at reducing homicides has impacted other crimes as well. For example, thefts dropped by 10,436 incidents, a decrease of 11.1 percent.

I mentioned our anti-violence strategies, and I would like to describe the major strategies that brought us success in 2005. We expanded the use of the gang loitering ordinance, issuing 38,536 dispersal orders—an increase of 131 percent over 2004—and dispersing 108,650 people in gang and narcotic hot spots. Over 200 dispersal incidents resulted in arrests, with 420 people arrested.

Our Targeted Response Unit (TRU) is deployed at a moments notice to conduct aggressive, visible patrols that focus on violence. In 2005 we increased the number of officers assigned to TRU by 50 percent, with commensurate increases in arrests, vehicle recoveries, and other enforcement activities.

We increased the number of Police Observation Devices (PODS) almost three-fold, from 35 to 100. These devices contain cameras encased in bullet-proof glass, and are strong deterrents to violence and drug activity. They can rotate 360 degrees, focus in on activity four blocks away, and see at night. They are conspicuously marked by a flashing blue light atop the POD, and can be taken down and moved to another hot spot in a matter of hours. We did, in fact, make 46 strategic movements of the PODS, based on crime data assessments, with each movement followed by targeted anti-crime initiatives.

Message from the Superintendent

Gangs do not go home at midnight, and neither do we. In November 2005 we initiated midnight gang teams. In less than two months, these teams made nearly 500 arrests, recovered 30 guns, impounded 28 vehicles, and made over 1,200 contacts with the community.

CAPS remained crucial to our success. We organized 282 new block clubs, distributed an average of three community crime alerts per week, and initiated 30 "Operation Cleans" in 2005. Operation Cleans address physical conditions that can breed crime in our neighborhoods, such as litter, broken lights, untrimmed trees, and abandoned buildings.

While our mission is to serve the City of Chicago, I would be remiss if I did not mention how proud I am of our members who participated in Hurricane Katrina relief efforts. We sent two deployments of officers to help with security and relief efforts in the devastated region. In addition, numerous Chicago officers and their law enforcement partners from the Chicago area volunteered their time, held fund-raisers, and donated truckloads of items for police officers in the hurricane areas.

And it goes without saying that I am proud of you, the members of our own community who work with us to eradicate crime from our city. We have effective strategies and cutting-edge technology, but we also need you. I urge all Chicagoans to join us in this fight against crime. Together, we CAN make Chicago the safest big city in America!

CRIME

Exhibit 1.

Total Index Crime, 1996-2005

Reported index crime declined consistently in the ten years from 1996 through 2005. The overall decline was 34.6 percent or 4.6 percent per year on a compound annual basis. Between 2004 and 2005 the decrease was 6.0 percent.

About Index Crime

Since 1930, the FBI has collected and compiled data to use in understanding and improving law enforcement administration, operations, management, and to indicate fluctuations in the level of crime in America. Index crimes are the combination of eight categories of crime, selected because of their seriousness and frequency of occurrence. The index offenses are listed below.

Violent Crime:
Murder -	The willful killing of a person or death through the criminal act of another.
Criminal Sexual Assault -	Broader than the traditional definition of “rape” (the carnal knowledge of a female, forcibly and against her will), this category includes any sexual assault—completed or attempted, aggravated or non-aggravated—committed against any victim, female or male.
Robbery -	The taking of or attempting to take anything of value from the care or custody of a person, by force or threat of force.
Aggravated Assault/Battery -	The intentional causing of serious bodily harm or attempt to cause serious bodily harm, or threat of serious bodily injury or death. This category includes aggravated assault, aggravated battery, and attempted murder.
Property Crime:
Burglary -	The unlawful entry of a structure to commit a felony or theft, or an attempt to do so.
Theft -	The unlawful taking or attempted taking of property or articles without the use of force, violence, or fraud.
Motor Vehicle Theft -	The unlawful taking of or attempt to take a motor vehicle.
Arson -	The willful or malicious burning or attempt to burn a house or other building, motor vehicle, aircraft, or personal property of another.

The overall decrease in index crime between 2004 and 2005 was reflected in both violent crime (2.2 percent) and property crime (7.0 percent). However, there was variability within these major categories. Within violent crimes, criminal sexual assault showed a decrease which was close to the overall decline (5.1 percent), while aggravated assault/battery showed a slightly smaller decrease (4.2 percent). Murders and robberies were essentially stable between the two years (0.0 percent and 0.4 percent, respectively). Within property crimes, arson and theft showed decreases substantially larger than the overall decline (11.8 and 11.1 percent, respectively); burglary increased by 3.7 percent; and motor vehicle theft remained essentially at its 2004 level (-1.1 percent).

Property crimes outnumbered violent crimes by a ratio of 3.7:1, close to the ratio in 2004. Property crimes declined at a faster rate than violent crimes (7.0 percent vs. 2.2 percent), reversing the trend in 2003 and 2004.

Violent Crime versus Property Crime

Violent index crimes are offenses with a high risk of injury or death to the victim, while property index crimes do not involve force directed to the person and/or bodily harm. Violent crimes accounted for 21.4 percent of all 2005 index crimes reported in Chicago, while property crimes accounted for 78.6 percent. These are close to the figures of recent years.

Three categories accounted for almost all (94.3 percent) of the 2005 violent crimes: robbery (44.4 percent), aggravated battery (31.3 percent), and aggravated assault (18.6 percent). Murder represented 1.2 percent of violent crimes, the same percent as in 2004. Among property crimes, theft was the leading offense, with 63.2 percent of the reported total, a slight decline from the 66.2 percent in 2004. In fact, theft retained its status as the most frequent index crime, accounting for about half (49.7 percent) of all reported incidents in 2005.

Exhibit 3a.

Violent versus Property Index Crimes, 2005

Exhibit 3b.

Exhibit 3c.

Index Crime Victims

Males were substantially more likely to be victims of violent index crime than females (64.0 percent vs. 36.0 percent, respectively) and somewhat more likely to be the victims of property crime (52.1 percent vs. 47.9 percent, respectively). Two gender differences were striking in regard to violent crime: the overwhelming majority (85.0 percent) of homicide victims were male, while the overwhelming majority of criminal assault victims (90.3 percent) were female.

African-Americans were the most frequent victims of violent index crimes in 2005 (66.0 percent), followed, at considerably lower levels, by Hispanics (18.3 percent) and Caucasians (13.8 percent). Caucasians ranked first as victims of property crimes in 2005 (42.5 percent), followed by African-Americans (29.5 percent) and Hispanics (23.6 percent). In 2004, African-Americans led as victims of property crimes as well as violent crimes.

The percentage of cases cleared in 2005 was 19.6 percent, virtually the same as in 2004 (19.2 percent). As noted elsewhere in this report, theft accounted for approximately half of all index offenses, and the overall clearance rate was therefore driven by the rate for theft (18.1 percent).

On average, violent crimes were twice as likely to be cleared as property crimes (33.9 percent vs. 15.7 percent, respectively). This ratio is typical of recent years. Aggravated assault had the highest clearance rate, at 55.3 percent, while burglary had the lowest, at 10.1 percent.

* Includes both the actual offense and attempts to commit that offense.

 Includes incidents that were cleared when the offender(s) is arrested, charged, and prosecuted and those cleared exceptionally. Incidents are cleared exceptionally when an offender has been identified, there is enough evidence to arrest, charge, and prosecute the offender, and the offender's location is known so that he/she can be taken into custody, but circumstances outside the control of the police department have prevented the arrest, charging, and/or prosecution of an offender (Federal Bureau of Investigations, 2004).

Note: The numbers reported for case clearances may be lower than the actual number of clearances for the offenses in a given year. This is due to the fact that a case clearance may occur during the year in which the offense was committed or in a subsequent year. The clearance then becomes recorded in the year in which the crime occurred. For comparative purposes, the case clearance data in Exhibit 5b. match the numbers reported in the CPD 2004 Annual Report and do not reflect any clearances to those cases which may have occurred in subsequent years.

Violent Crime Trends

Murder, 1996-2005

Exhibit 6b.

Criminal Sexual Assault, 1996-2005

Violent crimes declined steadily from 1996 through 2005, at a compound annual rate of 5.8 percent. The 35,974 violent crimes in 2005 represent a ten-year decline of 41.7 percent from the 61,635 in 1996. Individual crime categories varied in their percent decrease between 1996 and 2005, but within a narrow range: murder, 43.7 percent; aggravated assault/battery, 42.1 percent; robbery, 40.6 percent; criminal sexual assault, 39.5 percent. Aggravated assault/battery declined every year during the reporting period. Each of the other categories had a increase in one year of the reporting period (two years for robbery) against an overall pattern of decline.

Burglary, 1996-2005

With the exception of 1996-1997, when they were essentially stable, property crimes declined steadily between 1996 and 2005. The compound, annual rate of decrease was 4.3 percent. The 131,865 property crimes reported in 2005 represent a decline of 32.5 percent from the 195,321 offenses in 1996. This decrease is 9.2 percentage points less than the decrease in violent index crimes over the same period. In 2004 the disparity was 15.6 percentage points.

Individual crime categories varied in their percent decrease between 1996 and 2005: arson, 56.3 percent; burglary, 37.4 percent; motor vehicle theft, 33.8 percent; theft, 30.1 percent. Except for motor vehicle theft, no category declined every year during the reporting period. All of the other categories had plateaus and/or increases against an overall pattern of decline.

Exhibit 7c.

Theft, 1996-2005

Exhibit 7d.

Motor Vehicle Theft, 1996-2005

Murders were stable between 2004 and 2005 (0.0 percent change). Of the 2005 murders whose cause has been determined, 47.7 percent arose from gang activity, while 21.4 percent arose from altercations which were not gang-related. Robbery (10.3 percent) was the only other motive which accounted for more than 10 percent of murders of known cause.

Offenders under 21 years of age constituted about a third of the offender population (36.9 percent), a figure typical of recent years. Another 41.1 percent—also typical—were between 21 and 30 years of age. Altogether, then, about three-quarters (78.0 percent) of murder offenders were age 30 and under.

On average, murder victims were older than murder offenders. While the mean victim's age was 30.1 in 2005, the median offender's age was 26.0. From another perspective, persons over 30 years of age were 34.5 percent of the victim population, while they were 22.0 percent of the offender population.

Firearms Recoveries, 1996-2005

The 9,856 firearms recovered by Chicago police officers in 2005 is a decrease of 6.2 percent from 2004, and a 10-year low in the number of recoveries. Firearms were used in 75.7 percent of 2005 murders, virtually the same percent as in 2004 (75.2 percent).

Exhibit 9b.

Murder Offenses by Weapon Type, 1996-2005

* There was one murder in 1997, one murder in 1998, one murder in 1999, and one murder in 2000 in which the weapon type was unknown.

Chicago Community Areas and Map

The 77 Chicago Community Areas were defined cooperatively by the U.S. Census Bureau and the University of Chicago Department of Sociology following the 1920 Census. Although there have been substantial changes in population and infrastructure since then, the Community Areas remain the most widely-used geographic units by Chicago planning agencies, advocacy groups, and service providers.

Pages 15-16 contain index crimes by Community Area. In order to group data by Community Area, all index crimes were geo-coded based on the address of occurrence, plotted, and extracted, using a Community Area overlay map. As a result, the reader may note that the combined total by Community Area does not equal the actual total shown by police district. In addition, pages 17-18 contain Community Area population by race.

The reader may use the map on the following page to help identify Community Areas.

Chicago Police Districts

Chicago is divided into 25 police districts. Each police district has between 9 and 15 police beats, with a total of 281 beats throughout the city. It is at the beat level that the Department's strategy of police-community partnership and problem-solving is carried out.

Each police district is led by a district commander. In addition to uniformed beat and rapid response officers, each district has teams of civilian-dressed tactical and gang tactical officers. Each district also has a Community Policing Office which helps coordinate police-community partnership and problem-solving at the beat level and provides special services to senior citizens.

Districts are organized into large units called areas. Since 1992 there have been five police areas in Chicago, each commanded by an area deputy chief. For patrol-operational reasons, in 2001 the 1st and 18th Districts, which comprise Chicago's downtown, were placed under command of a deputy chief in an area referred to as the Central Control Group. In 2002, the boundary between the 1st and 21st Districts was moved to re-allocate service demand more efficiently. As a result, the area of the 1st District was increased, and the area of the 21st District decreased, by approximately one-third (.31) of a square mile.

The Bureau of Investigative Services continues to rely on the five area organization for the assignment of detectives and youth investigators, who follow-up and investigate crimes occurring in the districts comprising the area.

ARRESTS

Total arrests decreased by 2.3 percent between 2004 and 2005, bringing the number of arrests to their 2003 level. The 238,636 arrests in 2005 included 34,544 for index offenses (14.5 percent), 177,514 for non-index offenses (74.4 percent), and 26,578 on outstanding warrants (11.1 percent). The foregoing percentages are all within a point of their 2004 counterparts. Total index crime arrests decreased by 4.4 percent, with a range of 2.9 percent (arson) to 11.3 percent (murder/non-negligent manslaughter) among the six individual categories which showed a decrease. In two index crime categories—robbery and aggravated assault/battery—the number of arrests increased, by 5.7 percent and 1.2 percent, respectively.

Total non-index crime arrests decreased by 1.6 percent between 2004 and 2005, with a range of 1.6 percent (narcotics violations) to 24.1 percent (prostitution) among the individual categories which showed a decrease. Some non-index category arrests showed an increase. The largest among these was in regard to manslaughter by negligence (33.3 percent), but the numbers involved were small. Other, noteworthy increases were arrests for vandalism (14.0 percent) and gambling (8.6 percent).

 Other activities: 19 members of the SWAT team responded to the Gulf Coast area to assist in relief efforts shortly after Hurricane Katrina struck. The team assisted in search and rescue efforts, site security, and National Stockpile protection. These officers also conducted patrols with the Louisiana State Police and provided protection for body recovery teams during the 17 day deployment.

 As part of on-going Homeland Security initiatives, the Canine Unit along with Special Operations Response Teams (SORT) provided added security for the Central Business District and major transportation facilities.

There were 211,054 domestic violence calls placed to the Office of Emergency Management and Communications in 2005, a 2.2 percent decrease from 2004. The decrease was largely driven by a decline of 2.7 percent in domestic disturbance calls which represented 70.4 percent of all domestic-related calls for service in 2005. The other call types—domestic battery and violation of an order of protection—remained close to their 2004 levels (decreases of 1.1 percent and 0.3 percent, respectively).

The number of domestic violence calls per 1,000 residents varied by a factor of 12.6 among the districts, from 17.2 in the 19th District to 216.9 in the 7th District. Other relatively high districts were the 11th (181.1), 3rd (162.5), 15th (161.1), and 6th (147.3). Other relatively low districts were the 16th (22.6), 18th (23.9), 20th (26.5), and 17th (29.7). The Citywide rate was 72.9 calls per 1,000 residents, a decrease of 2.2 percent from 2004.

Domestic-related arrests declined by 5.7 percent between 2004 and 2005. The overwhelming majority of arrests (91.0 percent) were for domestic battery, followed by violation of an order of protection (7.4 percent). The seven other categories in which 2005 arrests were made together accounted for 1.6 percent of the total.

Domestic-related homicides have shown a variable course over the last ten years, with four years of increase over the previous year, and five years of decline. Although the 2005 count of 36 is the second-lowest in the ten-year period, it represents a 56.5 percent increase over 2004.

Domestic-Related Homicides, 1996-2005

Section 8-4-015 of the Municipal Code of Chicago directs the Superintendent of Police, in consultation with others inside and outside the Department, to identify areas of the City where gang loitering has enabled street gangs to establish control, intimidate others from entering those areas, or to conceal illegal activities.

When a police officer observes one or more persons engaged in gang or narcotics-related loitering in an area so designated, the officer informs such persons that they are engaged in loitering where such loitering is prohibited; orders such persons to disperse and remove themselves; and advises such persons they are subject to arrest if they fail to obey the order promptly or they engage in further gang or narcotics-related loitering at that location within the next three hours.

Roadside Safety Checks are one method used by the Department to enforce drunk driving and other traffic safety laws. The Department selects a site for a check based on factors such as past DUI arrest activity, the proximity of alcohol related businesses, the frequency of traffic crashes, and other public safety considerations. Officers slow the traffic flow and stop cars at regular intervals, speak with drivers, and watch for signs of alcohol use and other violations.

DUI Strike Force Patrols are similar in purpose to roadside safety checks, but involve roving patrols. Additional police vehicles are assigned to an area identified as a high accident location. Targeted offenses include speeding, unsafe vehicles, DUI and open alcoholic beverages, improper safety belt usage, and violations involving insurance, driver's licenses, license plates, and City stickers.

* As of 2002, Unit 079 is in charge of all sex investigations involving children 13 years of age or younger.

The number of investigations conducted by the Juvenile Advocacy Section decreased by 2.4 percent between 2004 and 2005. Among individual categories, the largest percentage decrease was in child abduction—family-related investigations (21.1 percent). Missing persons investigations and those regarding family-related sex offenses remained essentially at their 2004 levels (less than 1 percent increase each). The one category which showed an increase was child abandonment investigations (6.6 percent).

Between 2004 and 2005, there was an overall decline of 3.2 percent in juveniles processed by the Department. However, there was substantial variation among individual categories, three of which decreased and three of which increased between the two years. The decreases were 1.9 percent for station adjustments, 10.9 percent for referrals to Criminal Court, and 17.2 percent for curfew arrests. The increases were 1.2 percent for school absentees, 4.3 percent for status offenders, and 5.2 percent for referrals to Juvenile Court.

Note: Juveniles are defined as persons under 17 years of age.

* When a juvenile is taken into custody for a crime, he or she is turned over to a detective, who determines whether the juvenile will be directed to court or released to a parent or guardian with a station adjustment. Station adjustments provide for follow-up assistance or counseling by a detective or community agency.

 Status offenses are those which, if committed by an adult, would not be crimes. These include running away, truancy, and possession of cigarettes or alcohol.

Hate crimes are criminal acts committed for reasons of race, religion, ancestry, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or national origin. The 90 incidents reported in 2005 are a drop of 26.2 percent from the 122 in 2004.

Racial bias was the most common motive for hate crimes in 2005, accounting for 49 reported incidents, or 54.4 percent of the total. African-Americans were the most frequent victims of racially motivated hate crimes (30, or 61.2 percent) followed by Caucasians (38.8 percent).

Hate crimes based on sexual orientation were the second most frequent category, with 28 incidents, or 31.1 percent of the reported total. The substantial majority of these were crimes against gay men (71.4 percent).

Three hate crime categories represented 80.0 percent of the reported total in 2005: battery/aggravated battery (28.9 percent), criminal damage to property (26.7 percent), and assault/aggravated assault (24.4 percent). These have typically been the leading categories, and represented 80.3 percent of the reported total in 2004.

When their race and gender were known, 2005 hate crime offenders tended to be Caucasian males (55.2 percent) or African-American males (32.8 percent). These were also the predominant groups in 2004.

ADMINISTRATION

Chicago has the nation's second largest police department, serving approximately 2.9 million residents in an area of 228.5 square miles. The Department had 15,533 members at the end of 2005, including 13,323 sworn police officers.

Office of the Superintendent

The Department is led by the Superintendent of Police, who is appointed by the Mayor. In addition to overall Department management, the Office of the Superintendent is responsible for such critical functions as education and training, legal affairs, media relations, management and labor affairs, and internal investigations. The Superintendent manages the Office of the First Deputy Superintendent and five bureaus, each of which is commanded by a Deputy Superintendent. Within each of these major operating units are various divisions, groups, sections, and units that carry out the Department's operational, training, investigative, staff support, and administrative activities. An organizational chart of the Department's major units appears on page 37.

Office of the First Deputy Superintendent

The Office of the First Deputy Superintendent coordinates and directs Department activities relating to preventive programs and police-community relations; monitors the development and application of the Chicago Alternative Policing Strategy (CAPS); provides training for newly-promoted Departmental managers regarding their strategic planning responsibilities; and monitors the delivery of City services in support of crime-fighting and community policing strategies. Additionally, the Office maintains administrative liaison between the Department and outside agencies requiring the use of sworn members, and acts as the Department's command post.

Bureau of Investigative Services

The Bureau of Investigative Services is responsible for the follow-up investigation of crime and the apprehension of offenders. There are two major divisions within the Bureau: The Detective Division and the Organized Crime Division. The Detective Division is responsible for the investigation of felonies, selected misdemeanors, missing persons, and unidentified deceased persons; the processing of juvenile offenders and the care of juveniles in need of protective services; the response to, and investigation of, bomb and arson incidents; and the collection and processing of forensic evidence.

The Organized Crime Division addresses large-scale narcotics activities; vice crimes such as gambling, prostitution, and the distribution of obscene matter; the infiltration of organized crime into legitimate business activities; and gang-related crime.

Bureau of Patrol

The Bureau of Patrol is responsible for general field operations. This includes the protection of life and property; apprehension of criminals; use of the problem-solving process to address chronic crime and disorder problems; providing district law enforcement personnel with support that is consistent with beat and district strategic operational plans; and enforcement of traffic laws and ordinances.

Bureau of Strategic Deployment

The Bureau of Strategic Deployment is responsible for maintaining ready forces of personnel capable of responding to emergency situations, special events, and mission-directed patrols; conducting tactical analytic activities supporting effective deployment of field units; maintaining and deploying certain specialized vehicles; analyzing anti-terrorism intelligence; coordinating the Department's overall anti-terrorism planning and preparation; and providing dignitary protection.

Bureau of Crime Strategy and Accountability

The Bureau of Crime Strategy and Accountability is responsible for assessing crime strategies implemented by the Department and determining the effectiveness of those strategies; organizing the Department's Strategic Planning and Management Accountability meetings; and conducting audits and inspections to determine compliance with Department policy.

Bureau of Administrative Services

The Bureau of Administrative Services is responsible for coordinating and directing Departmental activities related to budget and fiscal control; personnel administration; data collection; criminal justice research, analysis, and reporting. Additionally, the bureau conducts policy and planning research; systems analysis and program development; prepares grant applications; and provides field operations with support that is consistent with beat, district, and strategic operational planning activities.

The Chicago Police Department had 15,533 members at the end of 2005, virtually the same as at the end of 2004 (less than 1 percent decrease.). Civilian members declined by 2.6 percent, while sworn and exempt members, and crossing guards, were essentially at their 2004 levels (less than 1 percent decrease each).

At the end of 2005, 31.9 percent of all Department members were women: 23.7 percent of sworn/exempt members, 67.2 percent of civilians, and 95.7 percent of crossing guards. These figures are all within a percentage point of their 2004 counterparts.

About half (48.5 percent) of the Department's 2005 members were classified as minorities: African-American, Hispanic, Native American, or Other. This breaks down into 44.7 percent of sworn/exempt members, 76.3 percent of civilians, and 66.2 percent of crossing guards. The crossing guard figure represents an increase of 1.6 percentage points over 2004. The other two figures are essentially the same as in 2004 (less than 1 percentage point difference).

911 Calls for Service, 1996-2005

The 4,979,621 calls to 911 in 2005 represent a retrenchment of 5.5 percent from the all-time high of 5,271,469 calls in 2004. Calls to 311 may concern police services or other City services. Those which concern police services only are reported in Exhibit 23b as "Non-Emergency—746-6000." These calls increased by 34.5 percent in 2005. Calls which include police services and other City services are reported as "Non-Emergency—MOII" (Mayor's Office of Inquiry and Information). These decreased by 3.3 percent in 2005. Administrative calls from the field to the 911 Center decreased by 12.7 percent, while automatic calls from triggered burglar alarms decreased by 12.1 percent.

Allegations of Misconduct

Allegations of misconduct by Department members are investigated by the Internal Affairs Division (IAD) or, in the case of complaints alleging excessive force or off-duty domestic disputes, by the Office of Professional Standards (OPS). A Complaint Register (CR) number is issued whenever a complaint is received. Each complaint is investigated and a determination is made as to whether there is sufficient evidence to sustain the allegation and take disciplinary action.

² This number reflects all allegations of unreasonable force; there may be more than one allegation against an officer; also, there may be one allegation against multiple officers, which is counted separately for each officer named as an accused even if arising out of one incident or investigation.

³ Not all investigations of allegations made in 2005 were completed in 2005, and therefore some of those complaints remain open.

Note: Some cases are carried over from CR numbers issued in prior years.

(a) Unfounded: The complaint was not based on facts as shown by the investigation or the reported incident did not occur.

(b) Exonerated: The incident occurred, but the action taken by the officer(s) was deemed lawful, reasonable, and proper.

(c) Not Sustained: The allegation is supported by insufficient evidence which could not be used to prove/disprove the allegation.

(d) Sustained: The allegation was supported by sufficient evidence to justify disciplinary action.

Attacks Against the Police

There were 3,117 assaults/batteries committed against Chicago police officers in 2005, up by 8.3 percent from the 2,879 incidents in 2004. On average, each district had 124 incidents in 2005, but the number varied from 46 to 359 per district. An attack on a police officer was most likely to occur during an officer's regular duties (95.3 percent), as opposed to special employment or being off duty; while the officer was in uniform (73.6 percent); and outdoors (71.2 percent). There was less consistency in the type of location where the battery occurred, the time of day and day of the week when the battery occurred, and the officer's activity at the time of the attack.

The officer sustained an injury 43.3 percent of the time. The number of officers who sustained a non-fatal, major injury as the result of an attack remained stable from 2004 to 2005 (49 officers in 2004, 47 officers in 2005). The average age of a battered officer in 2005 was 35. Over half (52.6 percent) of the officers attacked had five or fewer years of experience. The average age of known battery offenders was 28.

The Education and Training Division trained five recruit classes in 2005, graduating 514 recruits for the Chicago Police Department. This compares to eight classes and 494 recruits in 2004. The number of recruits graduated in 2005 is an increase of 4.0 percent from the number in 2004.

Chicago recruits presently receive 856 hours of training and instruction in the Academy, followed by a twelve-week field training and evaluation program. Recruits are on probation until they reach their 18-month service anniversary.

In addition to recruits for the Chicago Police Department, the Education and Training Division trained 62 recruits, in two classes, for suburban police agencies. This is a decrease of 36.1 percent from the 97 trained in 2004. Each year, all sworn personnel are required to pass a State of Illinois course of fire with their duty weapon and optional duty weapon, if applicable. Firearms training and qualification are conducted at each of the five Area Headquarter firing ranges and at the Training Academy.

* Officers returning to the Department following a leave of absence.

The Chicago Police Department's appropriation decreased by $6,847,749, or 0.6 percent, between 2004 and 2005. This decrease was driven by a decline of 0.7 percent in personnel services. In 2005, the latter represented 96.1 percent of the Department's total appropriation, the same as in 2004. Two appropriations categories, both with small bases in 2004, increased in 2005: travel (185.0 percent) and equipment (20.1 percent).

The Department's fleet inventory included 3,609 vehicles in 2005, virtually identical to the number in 2004 (3,610). The most common vehicles in 2005, as in previous years, were marked squad cars (46.0 percent of the fleet) and unmarked squad cars (34.6 percent). Although marked squad cars remained the most common vehicles, their number actually decreased by 74, or 4.3 percent, between the two years. Other noteworthy changes were an increase of 48, or 26.2 percent, in the number of pound vehicles expropriated to the Department; and an increase of 25, or 125.0 percent, in the number of Suburbans, Tahoes, Explorers, and similar vehicles.

Awards Granted, 2005

Police Blue Shield Award

An award granted to any sworn or civilian member who, as a result of accidental causes, has been seriously, critically, or fatally injured while in the performance of police duty. This award is limited to those cases resulting from an accident (e.g., a traffic accident, heart attack, or other nonviolent incident that occurs in the direct performance of police duty). 2

Police Blue Star Award

An award granted to any sworn member who has been seriously, critically, or fatally injured while in the performance of police duty. In addition, this award may be conferred if injury was averted by wearing body armor. This award is limited to those cases resulting from attack by an assailant, personal combat, or the performance of an act of valor. 2

Recognition Ribbon Award

An award granted to any sworn member who receives an outside governmental agency award that is given by a municipal, county, state, or federal agency, excluding awards issued while in the military, as a result of exceptional performance of duty and has brought credit to the Department and (1) is not issued a ribbon bar by the awarding agency, or (2) the issued ribbon bar conflicts in size or design with current Department ribbon bars. 18

Superintendent's Award of Merit

An award granted to any Department sworn or civilian member for an outstanding accomplishment that has resulted in improved administration, improved operation, or substantial savings in manpower or operational costs wherein the member has gone far beyond the requirements of his normal assignment to contribute to a more effective police service, or for outstanding police work that has brought great credit to the Department in a case of unusual public interest. 2

Superintendent's Award of Valor

An award granted to any sworn member of the Department for an act of outstanding bravery or heroism by which the member has demonstrated in great degree the characteristics of selflessness, personal courage, and devotion to duty. 43

Special Commendation

An award presented to any Department sworn or civilian member or citizen who has made a significant impact on public safety or crime prevention. 18

Joint Operations Award

An award granted to sworn or civilian Department members and sworn or civilian members of another governmental or city agency whose efforts and participation in a broad multi-agency joint operation/event, spanning several days or more, significantly contributed to the overall success of the operation. 276

Police Officer of the Month Award

An award granted to a sworn member or each sworn member of a team whose performance of duty during a specific month was characterized by such exceptional professional skill that it is merited recognition by the entire Department. 90

Unit Meritorious Performance Award

An award granted to individual sworn or civilian members of a unit who exhibited exceptional professional skill and conduct during a coordinated action. 173

Life Saving Award

An award granted to any Department sworn or civilian member for a successful effort in saving a human life that involved exceptional courage or performance. 155

Problem Solving Award

An award granted to any Department sworn or civilian member or member of the community who shows an exemplary effort to identify, analyze, and successfully respond to causes, conditions, and problems that may lead to crime and neighborhood disorder. 143

Department Commendation

An award granted to any Department sworn or civilian member for an outstanding act or achievement that brings great credit to the Department and involves performance above and beyond that required by the member's basic assignment. 1,240

Honorable Mentions Award

An award granted to any sworn member who has demonstrated outstanding performance and has received a minimum of 50 Honorable Mentions. 350

Fitness Award

Pins awarded to individuals who completed and passed the fitness test for the first time. 678

Military Deployment Award

An award granted to any Department member who is currently or was formerly a member of any branch of the U.S. Armed Services during his or her career as a Department member and during a time of conflict or war was deployed or activated to full military service, with the exception of annual summer camp or training, whether involuntary or voluntary. 82

“Sacrifice”

As visitors walk the park from South to North they traverse a serpentine path that leads them to the sacrifice, or memorial portion of the park. Some say that the aerial view of the sacrifice space resembles the symbol of a hurricane. The eye is said to be the calmest and most protected place to be during the storm, which is exactly what the architects would like visitors to feel when they enter. Near this space is an area dedicated to Officers who have been catastrophically injured, but not killed. This area is known as the space of “Living Sacrifice.”

“Virtue and Value Nodes”

In keeping with the current message within the Park, “It is not how these Officers died that made them heroes, it is how they lived,” as visitors continue their journey North they are met by nodes, or spaces that will each reflect different virtues or values of a Chicago Police Officer. They represent such things as Honor, Courage, Dedication, Pride, and Family. These nodes are connected by a thin blue line which is illuminated at night and signifies the protection that Officers provide society.

“Sacrifice”

At eye level the sacrifice space shows a concrete wall symbolic of all Chicago Police Officers who have served and are currently serving and have been unscathed. Rising out of the concrete wall is a band of marble which holds the names of the hundreds of Chicago Police Officers whose lives were sacrificed while protecting the city and her citizens. These names have next to them the style of star that was worn by the Officer based upon the year of their death. In maintaining the natural elements of the park there is a grassy, shaded area in the middle of this space that allows visitors the opportunity to step back from the wall, rest, and reflect even further if they so desire.

The Gold Star Families Memorial & Park was opened on September 12, 2006 and was dedicated during a candlelight vigil on September 18, 2006.

Both the South and North entrances to the park include identical features. Each entrance includes three large rectangular panels which are turned on their axis so as to symbolize doors swung open. Upon visitors passing through these doors to the park they walk through a dense grove of trees that narrows as they approach the interior of the Park. After passing the last of the trees the visitors have a real sensation of leaving the hustle and bustle of the city behind as they are welcomed into a beautifully landscaped park.
